

TEST INDICATES
BILL WILL PASS

House Votes to Take Up McCall Reciprocity Measure.

MARGIN WILL BE SUBSTANTIAL

On Motion to Set Aside a Rule and Take Up the Bill Embodying the Terms of the Canadian Agreement the Vote Stood 197 to 120—Outlook for Favorable Action More Promising in the Senate.

Washington, Feb. 14.—A test vote taken in the face of a rule setting aside the day for the consideration of business affecting the affairs of the District of Columbia. It therefore became necessary for the friends of Canadian reciprocity to set aside the rule and they did so by a majority of 197 to 120, thus making it plain that, whatever the fate of the agreement in the senate, the house intended to follow the lead of President Taft. Here again it would demonstrate that, without the aid of the Democrats, the president's proposal would have gone down to defeat in the house.

The McCall bill was taken up in the house in the face of a rule setting aside the day for the consideration of business affecting the affairs of the District of Columbia. It therefore became necessary for the friends of Canadian reciprocity to set aside the rule and they did so by a majority of 197 to 120, thus making it plain that, whatever the fate of the agreement in the senate, the house intended to follow the lead of President Taft. Here again it would demonstrate that, without the aid of the Democrats, the president's proposal would have gone down to defeat in the house.

Committee Reports Bill.

The house committee reported the McCall bill by a vote of 12 to 7, six Democrats joining with six Republicans in making the report, while six Republicans voted adversely on the proposition.

In open house 101 Republican members voted against the motion providing for the immediate consideration of the McCall bill. Nineteen Democrats sided against the bill on this test vote. The motion was adopted by the votes of 134 Democrats, 63 Republicans.

The Republicans who voted in opposition came from the agricultural states of the Northwest and New England, a few from New York and the border states and a number from the Middle West, including a half dozen or so from the president's own state of Ohio.

Among the prominent Republicans who took advantage of the occasion to express their approval of reciprocity as laid down by the president were Dabell of Pennsylvania, Fordney of Michigan, Hull of Iowa and Kiefer of Ohio.

A further analysis of the vote shows the Republicans who lined up against Canadian reciprocity were men who have been closely allied with the Cannon organization and the progressives from the West. The progressives, almost without exception, voted against the motion to take up the McCall bill.

TEACHER ENDS HIS LIFE

Nebraska University Professor Feared Becoming an Invalid.

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 14.—Fearing that he would soon become an invalid and be a burden to his wife and infant son Professor Frank J. Phillips, well known as a forestry expert, committed suicide at his residence in this city by inhaling gas.

Professor Phillips was thirty years old and was a graduate of the University of Michigan. An attack of la grippe and acute nervousness overtook him a week ago. His physicians pronounced the attack trivial, but Mr. Phillips continued to worry incessantly.

TO REPEAL PRIZE FIGHT LAW

Tennessee Boxing May Be Doomed on Account of Fatality.

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 14.—Memphis fight fans are wearing long faces as the result of the rumor that the death of George B. Dunlea, Jr., of Brooklyn, after his bout with Jack Abel nearly a week ago, may kill the game in the Tennessee city.

The coroner's jury declared that Dunlea died from overdilution in ice water, but there is said to be a disposition on the part of the legislature to repeal the boxing law entirely.

Hackenschmidt Throws Cutler.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—George Hackenschmidt got the first fall from Charles Cutler with a toe and body hold in 1 hour 3 minutes and 4 seconds. He won the second fall from Cutler with a toe lock in 10 minutes 20 seconds.

Five Killed in Explosion.

Hazleton, B. C., Feb. 14.—Five men were killed and two severely injured as the result of a premature explosion in a small tunnel on the Grand Trunk Pacific at Kitzelas, B. C. The men were working at the far end of the tunnel when a box of powder left near the mouth, presumably to thaw out, became overheated and exploded.

TEXAS SENATOR
FAVORS LORIMER

Bailey Makes Powerful Argument for Illinois Solon.

HOLDS FLOOR THREE HOURS

Probably the Largest Attendance of Members and Spectators During Preent Session Frequently Interrupt Bailey's Address With Applause. Speech Mainly a Review of the Law and Testimony With Many Novel Features.

Washington, Feb. 14.—Defense of Senator Lorimer of Illinois was offered by Senator Bailey of Texas in a speech so powerful that it was heard and applauded from time to time by what was perhaps the largest attendance of members and spectators seen on the floor and in the galleries of the senate chamber during the present session of congress. For three hours the Texas spoke, and at the end of that period announced he would continue his speech later.

His plea that the senator from Illinois be permitted to retain his seat was so elaborate in nature and delivered with such force and fervor that it placed Mr. Bailey in the chief place among the defenders of Mr. Lorimer.

In the main the speech was a review of the law and the testimony, but Mr. Bailey introduced many novel and striking features, not the least startling of which was the assertion that forgery had been resorted to to make a case against the Illinois senator. This he asserted had been in connection with the effort to show that Senator Holstlaw of the Illinois legislature had been bribed to vote for Mr. Lorimer. He pointed out that Holstlaw's name had been improperly spelled on the deposition slip used when the money he was alleged to have received had been placed in the bank.

Returning to Mr. White, Mr. Bailey denounced him as "a crook of the worst kind" and "an infamous dog," saying he had betrayed and tried to make money out of the labor element to whom he owed his election, "and yet," he said, "this miserable creature swears that he knew nothing of the existence of a jackpot. You can rest assured that if there had been a jackpot he would have been in it from the beginning."

CAUCUS ON PARTY NOMINEE

Iowa Republicans Seek to Break Senatorial Deadlock.

Des Moines, Feb. 14.—Three weeks having been wasted in fruitless joint balloting to select a successor to Senator Dolliver the progressive Republicans began the circulation of a call for a general Republican caucus to select a party nominee for the Iowa legislature.

Standpat Republicans, who have been supporting "Lafe" Young, declined heretofore to go into a caucus because they were demanding a special primary for Republicans at which to choose the successor of Dolliver. The bill for the primary failed of passage in both houses and the legislature faces the necessity of balloting every noon without hope of electing a colleague for Senator Cummins unless the Republicans get together on a nominee.

Supporters of W. S. Kenyon are pressing the caucus call. The standpaters are in constant conference and it is said that there is a chance of their breaking to some other candidate than "Lafe" Young.

HONOR SUSAN B. ANTHONY

Minneapolis Suffragists Will Visit Capitol on Her Birthday.

Minneapolis, Feb. 14.—Minneapolis suffragists are going to celebrate the birthday of Susan B. Anthony, pioneer agitator for suffrage, Wednesday by going in a body to the state capitol to pay their respects to the governor and the legislature.

Members of the five suffrage organizations in the city will assemble at 10:30 a. m. and board cars for St. Paul. They will wear Susan B. Anthony buttons and will go supplied with buttons to pin upon any of the state's rulers who will wear them.

Papers for Reciprocity.

Milwaukee, Feb. 14.—The Milwaukee Publishers' association, comprising all the daily newspapers of the city, unanimously adopted resolutions favoring the ratification by congress of the proposed reciprocity agreement between the United States and Canada. Wisconsin senators are asked to support the measure.

Guilty of Killing Friend.

Rockwell City, Ia., Feb. 14.—George Hershey was found guilty of murder in the first degree by the jury. Hershey was tried for killing a neighbor and lifelong friend named Anthony during a quarrel.

OGDEN MILLS REID.

Ambassador's Son Is Engaged to Miss Helen M. Rogers of Racine.

WILL WED WISCONSIN GIRL

Ambassador Reid's Son Engaged to Miss Rogers of Racine.

Racine, Wis., Feb. 14.—Mrs. Benjamin Talbot Rogers announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Helen Miles Rogers, to Ogden Mills Reid of New York city, the son of Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid.

Miss Rogers comes from an old Wisconsin family and is a graduate of Barnard college. For several years she was Mrs. Reid's secretary and has many friends in New York and London. Mr. Reid is a director and secretary of the Tribune association, publishers of the New York Tribune. He is a graduate of Yale college and the Yale law school and a member of the New York bar. He is a member of the chamber of commerce, Union League club, Union club and other leading New York clubs.

The wedding will take place about the middle of March.

WHITE EARTH CASES
IN DULUTH COURT

Hearing to Correct Alleged Illegal Transfers of Land.

Duluth, Feb. 14.—The arguments on demurrers to the government's bills of complaint in equity seeking to correct the alleged illegal transfer by Indian allottees of lands in the White Earth reservation to private parties were heard before Judge Page Morris. In all about 500 cases have been filed and six of them have been selected to make arguments on.

The opening was made by R. J. Powell of Minneapolis and C. M. Johnston of Detroit, Minn., but the latter has thus far not participated. Mr. Powell continued his argument all day.

It is expected that Judge Morris will give his decision at the conclusion of the arguments. There was some discussion as to the filing of briefs after the arguments and Judge Morris said that he believed it good policy to render a decision at the conclusion of the arguments when it seemed proper and suggested that the counsel make their arguments thorough.

The contention of the government is that, notwithstanding the fact that the Indians have the right to occupy reservation lands, the government still holds the absolute title and that the Indians mistook their rights to the lands allotted to them and sought to convey by deeds and mortgages land which really belonged to the United States and that such deeds and incumbrances are nullities.

EDITORS MEET THIS WEEK

Minnesotans Gather in St. Paul Thursday and Friday.

St. Paul, Feb. 14.—Thursday and Friday of this week, the Minnesota Editorial association will meet at the old capitol.

Welcoming speeches will be made Thursday morning by Governor Eberhart, Mayor Keller and President Louis Betz of the Commercial club, and the response will be made by President H. S. Saylor of the association.

Thursday evening the visitors will be entertained at the Orpheum and following that a smoker will be held on the roof garden of the Saint Paul hotel.

A programme consisting of reports and papers has been prepared and the election of officers will take place Friday morning.

Harsh words are like hallstones in summer, which, if melted, would fertilize the tender plant they batter down.

With College Fifty Years.

Decorah, Ia., Feb. 14.—Professor Lauritz Larsen, after fifty years of service devoted to Luther college, has tendered his resignation. But few men in school work have remained so long and so loyally to one college. He is laying down his work as a teacher in the college to take up magazine writing.

PLATFORMS NOT ALWAYS BINDING

Congress Not Sure to Regard Convention Pledges.

SHOWN BY RECENT EVENTS.

Popular Election of Senators Was Defeated in Last Republican Convention, but It Was Shown People Demand It—President Taft Believes in Hitchcock Because of His Economy.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Complaint is made that a great many things have been attempted which are not in the Republican platform. Senator Lodge called attention to the overwhelming adverse vote in the last national convention when an attempt was made to incorporate a plank for the election of senators by direct vote and stated that as one reason why there was no command for the party to pass the amendment.

But there was nothing in that platform for a tariff board or for Canadian reciprocity, yet both have become features of the administration program. It was said that when Roosevelt was insisting upon railroad legislation and several other measures that they were not mentioned in the platform.

It is a fact that many platform recommendations are ignored by congress and others not mentioned in the party declarations are taken up. That is the situation at the present time.

Hard to Decide.

Senators and representatives are often "up against it." In order to get the resolution for the election of senators before the senate it was necessary for a majority vote to displace the Alaska coal leasing bill.

That measure is of great importance. It means much to the people of Alaska and the whole Pacific northwest. But it went by the board in order that the election of senators by direct vote might have the right of way.

Probably a majority of the senate preferred to have the Alaska bill considered, and many believed it was of greater importance just now than the measure which took its place. But defeat or postponement is the destiny of all measures standing in the way of what the people want.

Believes in Hitchcock.

President Taft believes in Frank H. Hitchcock. No longer does the political writer who desires to keep someone near the truth make cabinet changes and oust Hitchcock from the postoffice department. More than that, the president believes that Hitchcock is the best economist in his administration.

Hitchcock showed more dollars and cents saved than any other man. It is true that he was hauled over the coals in congress for not promoting the coal fields, for not establishing more rural routes and for an alleged curtailment of the railway mail service, but the money statement showed a saving in the postoffice, and Mr. Taft stands by the head of that department.

Joe Fordney on the Job.

It has never been definitely determined whether Senator Scott of West Virginia or Congressman Fordney is the most intense protectionist in congress. In fact there is no need to decide, because both are for a tariff as high as it can be made, and then some.

Ever since the Canadian reciprocity agreement was sent to congress Fordney has been the busy man. Not a man who could be persuaded to oppose the agreement has been missed in his career canvass. The other day he met Senator Bourne and went at him on the subject of reciprocity.

"I'm with you, Joe," said the Oregon man. "Then let's slip 'em one from the bottom of the deck," said Fordney.

Would Try the "Sons"

A man on the way to the capitol handed a letter to a fellow street car passenger and asked him to read it. The letter was in a foreign language, and no one could do better than to say it was in Swedish.

"I'll take it to Senator Stephenson," he said, "or Senator Swanson. I guess either of them can read it." He believed that every man whose name ended in "son" was Scandinavian, which often the case in many northwestern localities.

Macon Learned Something.

Congressman Scott of Kansas was trying to convince Congressman Macon of Arkansas that he ought not to make points of order indiscriminately against increase of salaries, but allow the house to pass upon the merits of the increase. "If the house rejects an increase," said Scott, "and the senate puts it in the house conferees will stand by the house."

"When I first came to congress," said Macon, "I was simple enough to take the gentleman's view of it. But I soon discovered it was impossible, on a motion, to defeat any proposition that was attempted to be put through this house where it was extending the arm of anybody into the treasury."

Has His Friends.

Senator Lorimer has friends in congress, although opposition to him breaks out in unexpected quarters. He has many friends in the house, where they continue to call him Billy. His personal friendships in the senate are few. A curious feature of this case is that it is seldom a majority report of a committee has met so much strong opposition.

Flowering plants should never be watered with cold water. It chills the plants.

REVERTS TO COMMONWEALTH

Butte, Mont., Feb. 14.—The state of Montana achieved a notable victory in District Judge McClellan's court when the court sustained the objection to the introduction of any testimony by the Kolbow heirs in Germany, in the $50,000 estate controversy of Charles Colbert and ordered the proceedings brought by the Kolbows for a portion of the estate dismissed.

The principal question involved in this feature of the case was the constitutionality of the Montana statute regarding the rights of nonresident foreigners and Judge McClellan upheld the statute as is the general practice in courts of original jurisdiction when the supreme court has not passed on the legality of the law. There are about forty German heirs. The state of Montana contends that the estate has reverted to the commonwealth.

SOUTH DAKOTA WOMEN WILL FORM PARTY

Pierre, S. D., Feb. 14.—A gathering of women of the state was held at the capitol having for its purpose the organization of a party for women, which will seek to secure official places which are accorded to them under the constitution, without waiting for the right of suffrage for women.

They appointed a committee consisting of Mrs. May Billingshurst, Mrs. Janet Cole, Mrs. Florence Jeffries, Mrs. Cassie Hoyt, Mrs. Jone Russell and Mrs. Lizzie D. Laughlin, to meet within a few days at the call of the president to select a name and formulate a platform for their party. They announce their intention of taking an active part in future campaigns in the state and to assert their rights in this way even if not allowed to vote. They made a request upon Governor Vessey that he name a woman as one of the members of the state board of charities and corrections, such place not requiring an elector under the provision of the constitution.

BREAKS THE WORLD'S RECORD

St. Paul, Feb. 14.—Hitting the king pin on the nose each and every time Henry Martin and George Vandertuck, members of the Schmidt team of the St. Paul league and last year's champions of the International Bowling association in the doubles, broke the world's record for two-men teams established last year at Detroit by the famous "Candy Kids," Schwagler Brothers of Madison, Wis. Martin and Vandertuck drove 1,308 pins against the cushion, raising the former mark four pins. Every game bowled by the pin smashing duo was over two hundred, Martin getting the high single game score of 239 in his last game bowled.

GET AWAY WITH LARGE SUM

Sacramento, Cal., Feb. 14.—Four robbers blew the safe of the Nippon bank here and escaped with $5,918 in cash and several thousand dollars' worth of jewelry, left at the bank as security for loans. Charles Pullen and Albert Allison were both shot and seriously wounded by the robbers when they attempted to interfere. A posse was immediately organized and is now in pursuit.

NEAR DEATH FORM SMOKE

Four Men Taken Unconscious From Minneapolis Hotel.

Minneapolis, Feb. 14.—Four men were rescued from the Mankato House in an unconscious condition when smoke from a fire in a poolroom and barber shop beneath filled the lodging place. They were revived by a police surgeon. Fifty other roomers escaped in their night clothes.

TREATIES WITH ALL THE WORLD

BEFORE BREAKING DEADLOCK

Montana Legislature Votes Down Plan to Prevent Adjournment.

Helena, Mont., Feb. 14.—The joint assembly, by a vote of 66 to 44, refused to adopt a rule intended to govern the joint assembly so as to prevent a final adjournment before the senatorial deadlock is broken.

All of the Republican members with the exception of Senators Meyer, Tolman of Carbon and Higgins of Missoula, voted against the rule and with the help of Senator Galloway and Representatives Gillis, Blackburn and Alley succeeded in defeating it. The joint ballot showed no change in the standing of Carter, Conrad or Walsh.

The rule, the adoption of which was provided in a resolution by Colonel Nolan, provides for a roll call or an aye and no vote on all matters, including the matter of adjournment, coming before the joint assembly. Under the existing condition a motion to adjourn may be declared carried by the president of the senate, who is the presiding officer of the joint assembly, and there is no appeal from his decision. This permits of an early adjournment on the last day or night of the session without the election of a United States senator having been accomplished.

ROOSEVELT AND BARNES MEET

New York, Feb. 14.—For the first time since the fight at the state convention at Saratoga last September, all factions of the Republican party in New York state gathered in harmony. The occasion was the twenty-fifth annual dinner of the Republican club of New York city in commemoration of the one hundred and second anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln.

William Barnes, Jr., new chairman of the Republican state committee, who led in the fight against Colonel Roosevelt at Saratoga, was seated at the right of the former president and entered into an animated conversation with him. Seth Low, president of the club, presided. He had on his list of speakers Colonel Roosevelt, Rev. Dr. Frank Gunsaulus, president of the Armour Institute of Chicago, who delivered the Lincoln oration; Judge Emory Speer of the United States circuit court of Georgia and George von L. Meyer, secretary of the navy, who represented President Taft.

United States Senator Chauncey M. Depew, Lloyd C. Griscom, Henry L. Stimson, Horace White, Frank S. Black and Timothy L. Woodruff were among Republican leaders who were present. General Frederick D. Grant, U. S. A.; General Thomas H. Barry, U. S. A.; and Admiral E. H. C. Letzue also were guests.

SPEAK FROM SAME PLATFORM

Chief Executive and Speaker to Be of the Next House Address Opening Session of Pan-American Conference. Urge Closer Trade Relations Between Canada, North and South America and, in Fact, All Nations.

Washington, Feb. 14.—Reciprocity with Canada, reciprocity with all countries of North and South America, reciprocity, in fact, with all nations was advocated by both President Taft and Speaker to Be Champ Clark in stirring addresses at the opening session of the Pan-American conference.

Speeches favoring a closer commercial union of North and South America, with frequent reference to the future influence of the Panama canal, were made by Secretary of State Knox, James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation; Senator Calvo, the Costa Rican minister to the United States; Senor Calderon, the Bolivian minister to the United States, and Senator Casasus, formerly the Mexican ambassador to this country. Nearly six hundred delegates and almost the entire diplomatic corps were present.

Champ Clark announced in his address amid loud applause that the test vote for immediate consideration of the Canadian reciprocity bill had been won by the administration. Turning to President Taft, he said laughingly: "That's a document the president and myself own in partnership. But speaking for myself—not for President Taft or any one else—I am for reciprocity, not only with Canada, but with all South and Central American republics. In fact, I am in favor of reciprocity with all nations of the earth."

"The last speaker and the next speaker and I," said President Taft, who followed Mr. Clark, "have gotten together on one plank of a platform; we're both rather heavy men and I hope it'll support us. It's a great pleasure to be with him in the promotion of trade in one part of the world—Canada. He's in favor of reciprocity in all parts of the world and so am I. In anticipation of his coming to be head of the great popular branch of the legislature we have already gotten together on the most important matter and I hope we can carry it through."

CORONER SUSPECTS MURDER

Duluth, Feb. 14.—While Deputy Coroner H. G. Seeley does not say so directly his conduct in the investigation of the death of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Newman, the Minneapolis couple whose charred bodies were found in the burned ruins of their cabin two miles from Allen Junction, establishes the belief that he thinks the couple were murdered and robbed.

Mr. Newman had his clothes on when he died in the cabin. The clothing was all burned, but the buckles of his vest were under the remains, and other facts establish the fact that he was not in bed when the cabin burned. Some of the kitchen utensils of the Newman house were found hidden near the cabin. Articles of jewelry which bore marks of identification are the only ones that have not been recovered.

FIRE IN BUSINESS DISTRICT

Nevada, Ia., Feb. 14.—Fire of unknown origin which broke out in the Fuller restaurant destroyed a portion of the business district of Collins, this county, and for a time endangered the entire town. The loss will be about $30,000. The Fuller restaurant, a vacant building, the postoffice, its contents and records, the offices and fixtures of Doctors Robertson and Sopher and the Flower hotel were destroyed.

RICH IRON LAND SUIT BEING TRIED

Merritt vs. Joyce Being Tried in District Court by Judge McClenahan

LANDS ARE IN SECTION 3-46-29

Merritt is Suing for a One-Third Interest—Formidable Array of Counsel

There is being tried today in the district court by Judge W. S. McClenahan a mining suit involving iron lands of great value. The case is entitled Franklin W. Merritt vs. William T. Joyce and others. It was continued from the January term of court to be taken up today.

The array of counsel in the case is most formidable. Judge Kerr, of Kerr & Fowler, of Minneapolis, appears for Mr. Merritt. Attorney Harris Richardson, of St. Paul, represents the defendant, Joyce. Attorney R. R. Briggs, of Duluth, appears for the McAlpine interests.

The suit was commenced by Franklin W. Merritt, of Minneapolis, where he claims title to a one-third interest in the south half of the southeast quarter of section 3-46-29, lands said to be rich in iron ore. The suit bids fair to last two or three days and is attracting much interest among the mining men and operators of the Cuyuna iron range.

AGRICULTURAL POSSIBILITIES

Of Northern Minnesota Are Indicated By the Following News Item

H. L. Sessions, farming a small piece of land north of Chisholm, has harvested a crop that will bear comparison with that in most states and shows the possibilities of successful farming in St. Louis county. On a trifle over half an acre of land he raised over 200 bushels of carrots and rutabagas. Of carrots he had 170 bushels, worth now $1.50 per bushel, or $255; about 150 bushels of rutabagas at $1 a bushel, making $450 gleaned from half an acre in one year. Besides the marketable products there were enough small carrots, etc., to nearly pay the cost of producing the whole crop.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

FAVORS RECIPROCITY

Howard Elliot, President of N. P., Talks of His Trip Through Northern Minnesota

The Pioneer Press says: "After spending the latter part of the week in the northern part of the state, during which time he visited Brainerd, Bemidji, International Falls and a number of smaller towns in that section, Pres. Howard Elliot of the Northern Pacific railway, returned Monday to St. Paul, convinced from all he heard and saw while away that the people of these districts favor the proposed reciprocity treaty with Canada."

"President Elliot left here Friday afternoon. Saturday evening he was the guest of the Brainerd Commercial Club, when more than 100 persons were present. While the matter of reciprocity was not mentioned in open meeting, the subject was discussed in conversation by those in attendance."

"As far as I am able to judge from what I heard while on this trip, I should say Northern Minnesota is strongly in favor of the reciprocity agreement," said President Elliot last night. "The subject was frequently mentioned in my presence, but I do not recall intense opposition to the proposed treaty on any occasion."

"President Elliot's visit to International Falls was of brief duration. While there he did not hear of any discussion bearing on reciprocity, but he did not see why the treaty should not be met with as much favor along the Canadian line as in the small towns just a short distance south."

"Just as on his former visits to Northern Minnesota, President Elliot returned home deeply impressed both with the wonderful possibilities that lie before that section of the state. The lands in the northern counties, he says, are especially fertile and await only the coming of the settler to make them as productive as any to be found in the northwest. While this country now is given over largely to the timber industries, he thinks it soon will grow to be known as an agricultural section."

BUILDS SNOW TEMPLE AND SLIDE

CAN BE SEEN AT 1316 PINE ST.

Toboggan Slide is 60 Feet Long and Snow Temple is 20 Feet in Height

Southeast Brainerd, at 1316 Pine street, possesses a most curious snow temple and toboggan slide which will interest every child as well as many a grown-up. The design is certainly beautiful and shows much ingenuity on the part of this builder in snow. Neils Anderson, a relative of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew L. Anderson.

Many people have come to view it and all, as a rule, wondered where he could have found snow enough to build it. Its dimensions are as follows: The temple or snow house measures about ten by fourteen feet in size and stands over 20 feet in height. Its walls are pierced by port holes and a door on the ground floor admits one to its interior, which measures about six by ten feet and has an arched ceiling seven feet high. Outside one may walk to the top of this house, steps having been fashioned in the snow. The top is arranged in the shape of the battlements and tower of a feudal castle. From the four corner columns fly alternately American and Danish flags. The center is spanned by a graceful arch from which rises a pole bearing a large American flag.

From this temple, at a height of about twelve feet, the toboggan slide is attached and makes an easy descent, attaining the level of the yard and then running lengthways of the lot a distance of over 60 feet. Near the fence at Pine street the slide dips up like the end of a jump off on a ski slide. It attains a height of ten feet. The slide is paralled by ice walls and the children slide down on a sled which just fits in the track. The children slide 60 feet on Pine street, then back again to the temple, each trip growing shorter until all momentum is lost.

Many photographs of the slide and house have been taken. Many visitors have looked at it and all agree it is the most unique snow house ever built in the city.

Neighbors say it took Mr. Anderson a month to build it. He erected his board molds the same as a cement worker lays out his designs and then packed in his slush ice and snow and poured water into it. As fast as a section set he removed his boards and commenced on a new part. The arched ceiling of his snow house is especially well designed and remarkable also for its strength.

Life Saved at Death's Door

"I never felt so near my grave," writes W. R. Patterson, of Wellington, Tex., as when a frightful cough and lung trouble pulled me down to 100 pounds, in spite of doctor's treatment for two years. MRS. L. J. CALE ROBBED IN CANADA

"Daily Province," of Vancouver, B. C., Gives an Account of The Hold Up

OCCURRED ON EVENING FEB. 3

"Mrs. L. J. Cale, a visitor in the city from Brainerd, Minn., was held up and robbed of her purse at 8 o'clock last evening on Burrard street between Burnaby and Davie."

"She was stopped by two men, neither of whom wore a mask. One of the robbers held a gun in her face and told her that if she made any outcry they would fix her. The second bandit stood a few feet away and took no part in the robbery."

"In the first moments excitement Mrs. Cale declared that she had no purse, but when the men made an attempt to search her pockets she remembered the purse and drew it forth. It contained only a few dollars. The robbers ran away in the direction of False Creek."

Notice to Odd Fellows—All members are requested to be present at the meeting Wednesday evening, Feb. 15th, as there will be some degree work. K. W. LAGERQUIST, H. L. PAINE, Sec. N. G.

LOS ANGELES QUEEREST SHAPED CITY IN THE WORLD

The oddest shaped municipality in the world is Los Angeles without a doubt. Many cities of the world have assumed curious formations by annexation, but none has a tail like the metropolis of southern California. Incidentally Los Angeles is the sixth of the American cities in area and the seventh in the world's catalogue. It embraces 64,461 acres, or a fraction over 100 square miles. London is the only foreign city to surpass it in area, while in this country New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, New Orleans and Rochester rank it.

The city was founded in 1781 and incorporated in 1850 with an area of twenty-eight square miles. Since that time it has been enlarged eleven times and now has a population of 319,000. The main portion of the city is approximately eight miles wide east and west by ten miles long north and south and is connected with the San Pedro harbor portion by a strip twelve miles in length and half a mile in width. The harbor section itself is somewhat in the shape of an isosceles triangle, whose sides are about four and three-quarters miles. The city's extreme length is thirty-one and three-tenths miles and width ten and four-fifths miles.

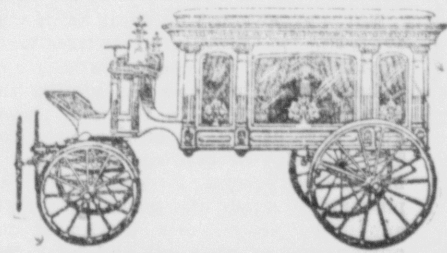

Hard Time Getting Sleep.
A terrible denunciation of New York hotels has been made by a traveler, by name Oswald Flannagan, owner of a bird store in Keokuk, Ia. Flannagan complains bitterly because he could get no rest. This was not because he frequented Broadway, rather through the short-sightedness of the hotel men in failing to furnish beds for tall men. Flannagan, it may be remarked, is more than six feet in height, most of which is legs.

"Proprietors who take money from tall travelers should be prepared to accommodate them properly," quoth Flannagan to one hotel clerk. "All the beds I tried average about five feet, and that left a lot of me hanging over. I put my feet through the brass rungs, and every time I got to sleep I dreamed I was sitting down."

"You're supposed to curl up in a New York bed," suggested the clerk. "Space is very valuable in this city."

QUIT DRINK NOW.

The Juliet Murray Lang Institute Offers the Opportunity to the Slave of the Liquor Habit to Throw Off the Fetters that will Surely Drag Him Down to Utter Ruin. There is no man whose condition is so pitiable as the slave to the liquor habit. Excessive indulgence in drink destroys his reputation, undermines his health, paralyzes his intellect, vitiates his morals and ultimately makes him an object of loathing and contempt. His friends forsake him. He brings sorrow and disgrace upon everyone connected with him and drags his family down to misery and poverty. To get drink he squanders the money with which he should supply them. At the end, his children are in rags and dependent upon charity, and his sorrow.

Mrs. Juliet Murray Lang, a rowing wife, old before her time, is condemned to a life of unremitting toil, to give the offspring of an unhappy marriage that support which drink deprives the husband of both the inclination and capacity to supply.

But why enlarge on facts with which everyone is familiar? Drink is the great curse of our country and our age. Once a man becomes its victim there is usually little help for him through good resolutions or efforts to reform. The appetite or craving for liquor has become so strong, so absolutely overpowering, that his good resolutions, supported only by a weakened will-power, are of no avail and he is compelled to yield. Succeeding each failure, the attempt to withstand the desire is less resolute, and he finally drifts into a life of reckless dissipation. Only extraneous aid can remedy the remedy. There is such a remedy, however, certain and unfailing. No matter to what depth the victim of the liquor habit has descended the JULIET MURRAY LANG INSTITUTE of St. Paul stands out as a beacon light to a shipwrecked mariner. It is a remedy which was discovered only after years of patient scientific investigation of the liquor habit and experimenting for a cure for those afflicted. How well this has been accomplished is shown by the thousands of patients all over the Northwest, successfully treated by the Juliet Murray Lang Institute during the past thirteen years. Countless numbers of letters from thankful mothers and wives, also bear testimony to the great good we have accomplished.

If the victim of the drink habit would only stop to consider the terrible thing he is doing to himself, his faithful, patient wife and innocent children, the sorrow and anguish he is causing to those in any way connected with him, he would surely come to the Juliet Murray Lang Institute and take the treatment that would forever rid him of the terrible curse—slavery to drink, for, aside from his obligations and duty to those dependent upon him, there is surely too much of the good, and the beautiful in this world, for a man to blot himself out from it all just for whiskey. Remember it is never too late to mend. Go to the Juliet Murray Lang Institute and be cured from this desire for drink and you will be able forever afterward to show to the whole world that you are in very truth—a man.

Mrs. Lang gives personal attention to every patient aside from the regular physician and nurses in attendance. Prices and terms are reasonable. Write JULIET MURRAY LANG INSTITUTE, 288 Walnut Street, St. Paul, Minn.

ABDUL THE TIMID.

HIS PALACE LIKE A PRISON.

Yildiz, a Place of Mystery, Was the Production and the Abode of Fear Unutterable—His Dread of Assassination and His Horror of the Dark.

For long years Abdul Hamid had been haunted and tormented by the nightmare of death. In every shadow he seemed to see an assassin. All his vast power could not bring him one moment of peace and happiness. Not for one moment was Turkey's monarch at ease.

Year by year his fears had been growing upon him. He had a terror of the dark. At night Yıldiz always blazed with lights. His sleep had become restless, and he would awaken at the slightest sound. Sometimes he would come out of his sleep with a start, frightened by a nightmare, and that, righted mean hours of wakefulness. At such times he would find the solitude of his room unbearable, and he would send for a sorcerer, who would explain the dream, or a slave, who would read to him from one of his favorite books, those giving detailed accounts of assassinations, executions and other horrors.

He was always armed. His clothes were lined with enormous pockets, which served him both as arsenals and archives and bulged with pistols and rolls of spies' reports.

Everybody at Yıldiz was afraid of being shot by him. He was likely to fire at the slightest action that might seem to him suspicious. There is a story that one day a gardener working in the park of Yıldiz, on seeing the sultan approach, rose quickly from a stooping posture to assume a respectful attitude. Abdul Hamid, startled by his sudden appearance and suspecting some evil motive, at once fired at him. The man fell dead. Later, as no weapon was found on his body, it had to be acknowledged that a blunder had been committed. Such is the tale told by the son of the late Sultan of Samos, who was one of the prince's intimates.

Yildiz, scene of innumerable horrors, had been built by Abdul Hamid himself, and he had made it more like a labyrinth than a palace. It was the production and the abode of fear unutterable. Surely no sane mind planned it. To guard against conspirators getting a plan of his residence its master was continually changing its internal arrangements, walling up doors, opening new ones, narrowing passages, dividing rooms by partitions, making windows and closing them again. It was a constantly changing maze.

To spare himself the danger of crossing the graveled path that separated his apartments from his harem he had linked his residence by flying bridges to the harem on the one side and to the imperial theater on the other. This theater was a gloomy little place, where the monarch would sit entirely hidden from view in his box while actresses and singers from Paris and other European cities entertained him. He never came into view, never applauded, and the visible audience consisted of a few members of his family.

The building used by Abdul Hamid as his private residence looked more like a prison, for all the lower windows were securely barred and the heavy iron doors were of great strength and capable of being firmly bolted inside.

Every room in the palace was provided with a couch on which the sultan could sleep if he felt inclined. Nobody ever knew in what room he would sleep on any given night. Before retiring to rest he would sometimes call his attendants and say to them: "Keep a good lookout. I am going to sleep tonight in this room." But he would invariably sleep somewhere else.

On the roof of the imperial apartments was an astronomical observatory which had been fitted up with an exceedingly good telescope by a Parisian firm. This observatory was a favorite place with the sultan, yet he took not the slightest interest in astronomy. The telescope was there to serve his own purpose of espionage, for he used it almost exclusively for the purpose of watching the residence of Prince Yusuf Izzeddin, eldest son of Abdul Aziz and heir presumptive to the throne. His glass was never turned upon the heavens.

But sometimes from his lonely look-out the monarch saw stranger things than the residence of Prince Yusuf, things that no other human being had ever dreamed of. There were times when his morbid imagination played curious pranks with him.

It was on the day following an attempt upon his life by one Ali Souavi and a revolt at Teheran, about which incidents greatly upset him, that Abdul Hamid hurried down from his observatory with a wild look in his eyes and called his first secretary, who at that time was Ali Fud Bey. He led the secretary to a window, and, pointing to the sublime porte some miles away, he said, trembling with fear:

"Did you see them? They have met yonder to proceed in my downfall!" "Who?" asked the startled secretary. "My ministers," exclaimed the sultan. "My own ministers are now in the act of deposing me. Can't you see them?"

This statement was quite unfounded, and it was a long time before the secretary could calm his frightened master.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Justification.

"You admit, then, do you, O'Shaughnessy, that you assaulted your friend?" asked the judge.

"Sure an 'Oi do that, yure honor," replied O'Shaughnessy. "Oi gave him a couple of good wans. He called me a dommed fool, yure honor."

"And did you consider that an insult?" demanded the judge. "Naw, sorr," said O'Shaughnessy. "Oi t'ought it was a gross betrayal yur confidence, sorr."—Harper's Weekly.

LAYING BRICKS.

How Scientific Methods Raised the Standard of a Day's Work.

There are now eminent consulting engineers who are engaged by industrial heads to study their establishments from top to bottom with a view to finding by scientific study the methods of working, accounting and handling labor which will improve on the old traditional habits. Some extraordinary results have been attained. What scientific management means is admirably illustrated by the story of bricklaying, as told by an expert.

Ordinarily a brick mason makes eighteen different sets of motions in laying a single brick. He bends over, in the first place, to pick up one brick, and in lifting it he lifts ten pounds of brick and about a hundred pounds of brick mason—the upper part of his own body. In laying 1,000 bricks in a day's work he lifts 100,000 pounds of brick mason. This was an obvious waste of labor. So a common laborer was hired to put the bricks where the masons would not have to stoop for them. Another thing is that when a mason picks up a handmade brick, which is always a little thicker on one side than on the other, he tosses the brick up, turning it over until the top tells him which side is the top before he puts it in place in the wall. The cure for this was to have all the bricks piled top up before they were brought to the masons. Then, further, every one has seen the mason tap his brick several times to settle it into the mortar—more waste of time. The cure was to make the mortar thinner, so that the weight of the brick would settle it into the right position. This was scientific management, "motion study." It raised the day's work for the average brick mason from 1,000 up to 2,700 bricks a day and in individual cases to much higher figures. The mason made only six motions where he used to make eighteen.—American Review of Reviews.

WHISTLER WAS INDIGNANT.

The Idea of Buying His Pictures and Then Demanding Possession.

A certain eminent English lady, the proud possessor of a title of fairly high degree, who admired Whistler's genius to the extent of purchasing one of his pictures, never was able to obtain possession of her property. One day she drove to the studio in her victoria. Mr. Whistler went to greet her. "Dear lady," she said, "two years ago I bought one of your pictures, a beautiful thing, and I have never been able to hang it on my walls. It has been loaned to one exhibition or another. Now, today I have my carriage with me, and I would like to take it home with me. I am told it is in your possession."

"Dear lady," returned Whistler, "you ask the impossible. I will send it to you when I have it again, but it is not here. You have been misinformed." And so forth, and so forth, to the same effect, and the lady drove off without her picture.

After she had departed Whistler commenced to poke around his studio and, to the great astonishment of a friend who had been an involuntary listener to the above conversation, he brought forth a canvas.

"Here it is," he said. "She was right about one thing—it is beautiful." And it was beautiful.

"But the impudence of these people," he continued, "who think that because they pay a few paltry hundred pounds they own my pictures. Why, it merely secures them the privilege of having them in their houses now and then! The pictures are mine!"

End of the Trail.

"I lost a pocketbook with a roll of bills in it a few weeks ago," Charlie Gibson told us. "I didn't make a fuss about it and tell the papers, but it was more than I could afford to lose. So I put a detective on it. He asked a lot of questions, looked wise and said he'd report in a day or two. Well, about three days later I found that pocketbook where I had mislaid it. I rejoiced exceedingly, and then I called up the detective agency to confess. The sleuth seemed disgusted. 'Mighty careless of you,' he said. 'And I'd just found a darned good clew too!'—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SAVAGES OF ASIA.

MURDER IN THEIR RELIGION.

At Their Wild Ceremonies the Priests of These Barbarians Offer Up Human Sacrifices to Their Grotesque and Repulsive Stone Gods.

A religious festival by a savage tribe of Asia, in which occurred a human sacrifice and the burning of the victim on a funeral pyre, is described by William Jameson Reid in his book, "Unexplored Asia." The rites were held in a place called Chite City, Tzuchan, which was reached after a hazardous journey through the Ping mountains. He says:

"Let me give a brief history of this strange race, who for centuries have defied the most persistent research of explorers and ethnologists. Many centuries ago, in the vicinity of Shanghai, there lived a highly enlightened race known as the Chites. They were the most fanatical and bigoted Buddhists, so fanatical, in fact, that their turbulent spirits and eager desire to sow the seed of proselytism caused frequent revolutionary disturbances. The government, as its only means of salvation, made war on them. For years the Chites battled against overwhelming odds until at last, their numbers fearfully reduced, they gradually retired to the west, settling here and there, only to be again driven back. After years of wanderings they located in the wild mountain region of northwestern Tibet.

"For untold centuries they have held entirely aloof from their more civilized Chinese neighbors, and today they are as untamed and barbarous as were their fierce ancestors. Many of them are savages of the worst degree; even cannibalism is said to be prevalent among many of them. They acknowledge no allegiance to the emperor, they ignore the authority of the mandarins and hold no communication with the outside world. Yet we have penetrated their wild domain; we have visited their stronghold and have witnessed their strange customs.

"It had been our intention to steal into the city under cover of night, but from our position of vantage we could see that some religious demonstration was in progress, and we did not dare to move. For half an hour our guides (natives) crawled out on the plain and returned with the information that we had discovered a considerable cave in the hillside to the left of the town, which would screen us from observation and at the same time permit us to watch the movements of those inside the walls. We had just time to reach our place of concealment when the leaders of the procession entered the narrow orifice and halted while torches were being lit to guide their passages through the gathering gloom. Following them pressed the unkempt crew, until the interior of the dome shaped cave was filled to the point of suffocation.

"For half an hour the ear torturing strife of discord waxed louder at every moment until a hundred devils in human form flitted beneath the flare of flickering torches. A frenzied enthusiast would leap into the air, lacerating himself with a knife, grasping the gory strip of flesh and grinding it under his heel, or taunting a neighbor into the spirit of emulation by flaunting before his eyes the ghastly piece of flesh. Suddenly from out the compact mass rose a howl of mingled anguish and fury, and a solitary individual mounted a sort of platform and stretched forth his hand. Evidently he was a high priest. Instantly there was silence. The light of the torches enabled us to see the man who had mounted the platform. He was a tall, gaunt individual. All his right side was naked, and his face was covered with gaping rents of knife wounds, from which blood trickled.

"A garment of coarse cloth covered his body below the waist. Soon we saw five others follow him upon the platform, which was of raised earth. In a recess in the wall at the rear of the platform one could see the distorted form of a gigantic image—a stony, impassive figure of such grotesque ugliness that one could not help wondering how a race of people, however unenlightened, could bring themselves to worship an object of such repulsiveness.

"At last a fearful moment was at hand. An old man was seized and stretched upon a sort of stone altar, raised above the platform. He realized his last hour had come, and he struggled in fear and fury to escape from the grasp of his captors, giving vent to shriek after shriek until, exhausted, he fell into a stupor. Four of the priests held the faintly struggling body, while from the gloom stalked forth the sacrificial priest, his hand holding a long knife. Once, twice, thrice he abused himself before the image, and then, turning round like a beast ready to leap upon its prey, he rushed toward the prostrate form. A flash of light and the keen blade sank to the hilt in the flesh of the victim.

"Three times did the worshippers on the floor rise and abuse themselves, and then quickly the minor priests seized the lifeless body and held it in the air. For a moment it silhouetted against the fitful glare of the fire; then the flames leaped forward in eager ecstasy to receive their prey."

Kindness in us is the honey that blunts the sting of unkindness in another.—Lander.

DEATH IN THEIR WORK.

Dangers That Beget Those Who Toil In Alkali Factories.

When you are inclined to be discontented with it think of the alkali workers. They die by inches from the moment they enter the factories. Things are not so bad now as they once were, but they are bad enough still.

In what is known as the "black ash" department in chemical works big open vats of caustic are used. The splashing of this caustic sends drops of the burning fluid flying through the air. A drop falling upon naked flesh causes a bad burn. A drop in the eye will blind it forever if the stuff is not removed within a few seconds.

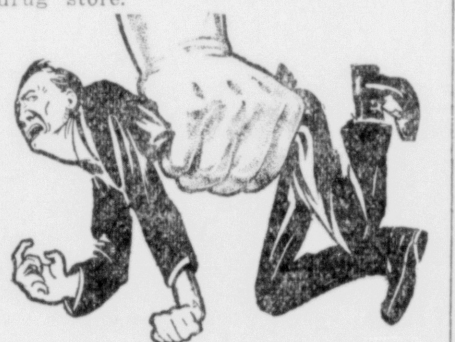

A black ash worker in a Welsh alkali factory, toiling at the caustic pots, received an invisible globe of this deadly spray in his eye. There was no water at hand with which to wash out the caustic. It seemed that he must surely go blind. But one of his mates seized on the injured man, who was quite frantic with pain, lifted his eyelid with forefinger and thumb and with his tongue licked out the caustic. He burned his tongue badly, but he saved the other poor fellow's sight.

Another of the dangers that beset the alkali worker—and the worst of them all—is poisoning by chlorine acid gas. This gas, which comes off the lime in the green fumes, is known to the men and joked about as "Roger." A full draft of the gas kills a man in an hour.—Pearson's Weekly.
